Gives Ground For Non-Suit Motion in Foreclosure Against Norwich and Westerly Road—Motion Was Denied by Judge Reed in Superior Court.

Before Judge Joel H. Reed in the superior court at New London on Tuesday the trial was started in the foreclosure suit brought by the Washington Trust company of Rhode Island vs. the Norwich and Westerly Traction company. The amount involved is $4,364.33.
The suit is to recover the amount of a loan made by the plaintiff to the defendant company, which the former claims was never properly recorded or paid. In February, 1913, four pieces of property in Hallville and Poquetanuck were attached by the Washington Trust company which it is attempting to take by foreclosure. The property is owned by the defendant company. Attorney John P. Huntington of Norwich represented the plaintiff and Walter, Waller, Avery & Gallup of New London represented the defendant company. Attorney Avery immediately made a motion for a non-suit at the opening of court in the morning on the ground that the property of the company essential to the proper operation of the road was exempt from attachment and that the attachments on the property constituted a wrong.
After the motion had been argued for several minutes by both sides, Judge Reed denied the motion, ruling that while the point made by the counsel for the defense was a speech on the merits of the case, it was not the merits of the claim, it had not been shown by evidence that the property which had been attached was part of the property used by the company to operate the road. So far as the court knew, the property might be some which was standing idle.
Robert W. Perkins, president of the Norwich and Westerly Traction company, was then called to the stand. He testified that the property in question was that on which the power plant and car barn of the company was located. The buildings had been erected on the land in 1908.
The case was concluded during the afternoon and the attorneys arranged to submit briefs.

The case of Clingan vs. Woodruff, appeal from commissioners, which was down for trial Tuesday, went over until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, and the case of Garret vs. Bogue, scheduled for Wednesday, went off the list for reassignment.

GOD'S HAND IS

ON THE HELM.

Shop Talk Subject At Thameville Cutlery.
Under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. a shop meeting was held Tuesday evening at the Thameville Cutlery. Rev. George H. Strouse of the First Baptist church spoke and said in part: Men, I'm glad to look into your faces today for the first time. I have been in this shop for some time, but because there is so much in men. Every man has within him large possibilities and then when God gets control of that life we can really imagine what the results will be.
My subject is God's Hand on the Helm.
God ever is guiding and controlling this world.
I don't believe God is ever handicapped for a man because He has him in training and in the hands of His power. God calls Moses to be the deliverer. A good man was needed to stand before Pharaoh. God found His man and the work was done.
God was guiding then and He is now. Thursday is Lincoln's birthday. We all have an arm place in our hearts for this big hearted man. Down in a Kentucky cabin God forged and molded this man who was to be the emancipator of 4,000,000 slaves. The hour had struck and God was unable to stand it any longer. You see, men, God is on the scene. He has His hand on the helm, Lincoln is the man for the awful crisis.

Nineteen centuries ago a Man came to this world to do great work. There were great wrongs to be righted. There were great problems to be solved. God had a Man big enough for the task. It was a heroic task. But Jesus was no ordinary man. Such a task demanded God's own Son. Jesus played his part well. He was put on the cross but that He expected. If a man is going to be a savior he can't do it sitting in a rocking chair. He must give himself. John Maynard gave himself to beach the boat so that all the disciples could be saved. Jesus gave himself and then died by the assassin's bullet. Christ gave Himself but through His death He has blazed a pathway to God for each one of us. At the meeting several selections were heard on the Victrola.

Peter Naomi, who tried on last Wednesday night in New London to carve up his friends with a 16-inch butcher knife, was committed to the Norwich state hospital and taken there Tuesday afternoon. Naomi and his brother, a woman named Pinney were sent there and found Naomi hiding at the end of a narrow hallway. They overpowered him and took the knife away from him before he had an opportunity to use it.

Naomi was locked up at police headquarters and after an examination by Drs. Henkle and R. E. Black, who were appointed a commission in lunacy, they recommended his commitment to Probate Judge Callahan's order for the commitment of the man was issued immediately.

DECISIONS GIVEN IN COMMON PLEAS CASES

Two Handed Down by Judge Waller—Motions and Assignments.
Judge Waller of the court of common pleas has decided in favor of the plaintiff in the case of Still H. Ross vs. Fanny Williams Mason and allows the plaintiff to recover $13.82. The case came into court from Stonington where the defendant, a resident of Stonington, N. Y., owns a summer home. Mr. Ross was engaged to clean the house and rendered a bill for $77.95 which Mrs. Mason contested.
In Elizabeth E. Kelly vs. the city of Norwich, in which damages for a fall on the walk in front of the former home of Dr. Hanford on Broadway in this city were claimed, the case was assigned.

In a session of the common pleas court here on Monday Judge Waller presided and the following jury cases were assigned:
Feb. 17, S. G. Avery vs. Charles White, Adams Insurance Co. vs. British American Assurance Co.
Feb. 18, Alfred Dupont vs. Louis Strom, Imperial Curtain Co. vs. D. J. Devinson, Orrin C. Main vs. North Stonington.
Feb. 19, C. L. Stewart vs. Sarah A. Barnes, Congdon & Carpenter Co. vs. Isaac Fishkin and David Fishkin.
Feb. 24, E. Weisbach vs. Max Stenlieb & Son, L. R. Church vs. town of Norwich, A. E. Reeves vs. town of Norwich, M. Fredu vs. Charles H. King.

Motions Argued.

The court took the papers after the argument of a demurrer in the case of Buddington vs. Smith.
An answer in ten days was ordered in the case of Woodman vs. Peckham.
In C. A. Marx vs. Feline Pazano a bond of $75 was ordered.
One week was given for an answer in the case of the Hebrew A. & I. G. society vs. Korman.
Judge Waller took the papers after the attorneys had made their arguments on the motion to dissolve the temporary injunction in the case of Jacob Slosberg vs. Julius A. Wuttkey. It was claimed that tending bar was not engaging in the liquor business. Mr. Wuttkey has been tending bar for J. Peringer after Mr. Wuttkey had sold out his own business to Mr. Slosberg and had signed an agreement not to engage in the liquor business.

NEW HEAVY CARS CALL FOR STEEL TRESTLE

Shore Line Electric to Replace Wooden Bridge in Waterford.

The wooden trestle over Smith's cove at station No. 21, Waterford, is to be replaced by a new steel structure by the Shore Line Electric Co. A gang of men of a big bridge company, which has the contract, began work on the new trestle Tuesday morning. The old trestle is to be torn down and in its place will be erected a heavy steel structure calculated to hold the heaviest type of trolley cars. The erection of the new steel trestle is made imperative by the acquisition of the road of trolley express and baggage cars which are under process of construction. The new cars will be of such a heavy type that the road has been compelled to replace the wooden trestle by a more substantial one. While the wooden trestle was considered sufficiently strong for passenger cars and the new bridge is being installed solely to allow the road to run heavier baggage and express cars, the erection of a new steel trestle over the cove will also give the trolley of the road a greater feeling of security.
The present trestle is the same one which was put up when the road first began operations several years ago with the exception of necessary repairs which have been made from time to time.
